

Ham'n Eggs ☺

1. This is what you need: one rod Effetre dark red or maroon, one rod Eff. Pastel Rose, one stringer Eff. White and some Frit in rose shades - 104 or 94 COE. (you will not reduce the frit, so I hope it is no problem to use it for BOC.)
2. Start with a donut shaped bead and flatten on one side. (not too much, see info below!)
3. Add a fat dot of Pastel Rose on the flat side and spread it to nearly the size of the flat surface.
4. Heat just the surface of the Rose and dip in frit. Melt in and let the frit spread a bit.
5. Add a big dot of maroon at the rear, melt smooth (no seal line visible) and pull it a bit to a rounded point.
6. For the bone, add one white dot, melt half way in and add two smaller white dots sideways - that's it!

Varieties:

You can use the same shape for chicken legs - just take a lighter maroon. The cut side is smaller and a bit more towards the side, and you can use fine brownish frit for the seasoning.

SUNNY SIDE UP!

Eggs are a easy task - just make a random white bead, press it flat and for the yellow yolk add a big dot on one side and melt it in halfway. Voilà!

!!!

Be careful to leave enough glass on the mandrel - thumb rule is as much glass as the mandrels size on each side.

About the Autors

Trix Rémy makes adorable offmandrel miniatures for dollhouses - and of course beads for the Swiss project for kids with cancer. The little ham was her idea.

Angela Meier also makes beads for Mutperlen, but one of her passions is teaching - she did several tutorials, also some for Mutperlen Switzerland.
